

Privacy Policy

Sharing information with third parties: The Palo Alto History Museum shares aggregate information about Web users and Web usage with our contractors who help us shape Web content to user interests and otherwise improve our website. We do not make any list of visitors to our website or their email available to third parties. We make portions of our postal mailing list available to carefully screened organizations that we believe may interest you. If you do not want to receive this information, please let us know.

Email policy: The Palo Alto History Museum provides forms on its website where users can sign-up to receive email publications, email notices and history topics. No one is placed on a regular email list that has not requested subscription through these forms or in some other manner. Users can unsubscribe from any email list on the registration section of our website or through the unsubscribe link on any email we send you. As new email publications are developed, users may be sent an invitation to subscribe.
